

Every square is 10 alerts from that detector. Red squares are the real attacks.

If your alarm just went off, you are almost certainly looking at a light blue square.